When is the hound crated?

- 8 Hour Work Day

How does the hound handle being crated?

She does best if she is crated away from the other greyhounds in the house. She seems to get upset when housed next to another hound and has growled and snarled at the hound that is housed next to her. It has at times escalated to her "attacking" the wall of the crate but she did not cause any damage to the crate. If she is by herself, or is unable to see the hound next to her, she handles the situation much better.

What does the hound enjoy?

Minnie has 2 hobbies, sleeping and eating. She will occasionally trot around the house or run outside, but its usually very short lived. The little lady tuckers herself out easily.

Does the hound have any fears?

She prefers to stay away from loud settings. She was less than thrilled about attending the Younkers meet and greet and did begin to salivate due to anxiety. She also gets stressed out when being walked somewhere its noisy, like a city sidewalk.

What type of temperament does the hound have? (Shy, outgoing, confident, etc.)

Minnie is a sweet, fairly confident little gal. She does great around people and does seek attention several times a day.

She also has no problem telling the other greyhounds in her foster home what's on her mind and try to be in charge. She is quite alpha with other dogs in a home setting. She also has some sleep startle.

How does the hound handle new situations?

It depends on the situation. If it's quiet and low key, shes fairly confident. If it's a high traffic (people or cars) and noisy, she does develop anxiety and may start
